

PRIME MINISTER

You originally agreed to see a gentleman by the name of Eliot Janeway who is a friend of Mr. du Cann's (correspondence attached). He will be in this country at the end of September and would like to see you on the 24th, which at present looks as follows:

Morning return Chequers
1200 Media briefing
1430 Free for Luxembourg speech
1600 Hair
1730 Ronnie Millar, Adam Ridley and Chris Patten
to discuss Party Conference speech

Do you still wish to see this gentleman? He appears to own a publishing and research corporation and is a distinguished economist and commentator on the American scene. Tim Lankester says he is very good, but surely he should be directed to the Chancellor?

ENGLAND

Dear Ian:

So sorry we did not meet on our last trip to London, but I am returning shortly. I am going to speak at an international seminar in Amsterdam, and will be in London on Thursday, September 27 and Friday, September 28. I would like to get in touch with you on either of those days at your convenience to apprise you of my latest overseas fact-finding tours.

I am looking forward to seeing you.

Yours sincerely,

Eliot Janeway

Mr Eliot Janeway

Many thanks for your letter of 17th July.

I telephoned Claridges this morning because the Prime Minister would have liked to have seen Mr Janeway, but he had already left.

Could you very kindly let me know please, when next Mr Janeway is going to be in London? Unfortunately, it simply was not possible for the Prime Minister to see him last week.

Many thanks for having mentioned this to me.

Ian Gow
Parliamentary Private Secretary

Mr Eliot Janeway arrives by Concorde at 21.00 on the 18 July and will be staying at Claridges.

I admire him and I am quite sure that Margaret might think it worth while to give him a few minutes interview, particularly in view of his forthcoming visit to Africa.
