THE PRIME MINISTER

27 May 1963

Dear Alan,

It was with great sorrow that I heard of your father's death. The loss is a great one not only for you & your family but for Britain too. He showed so many people the virtues of civility and how to respect them. His work and his great powers of communication was an example of how television can enrich peoples lives.

We had affectionate regards from all my family.

I am sure your campaign will be going well - you too have such considerable ability and a way with thoughts and words.

Yours ever

Raymond
